BUILDING SPIRITUAL MOVEMENTS EVERYWHERE SO THAT EVERYONE KNOWS SOMEONE WHO TRULY FOLLOWS JESUS

This was a full month to say the least. I spent the first part of it in Thailand with our overseas missionaries. What a great time to be together, to get to encourage their team, and to bring fun snacks from America. The main purpose of my trip there was to meet with our East Asia partners to continue further conversations about sending and partnership. We have loved sending our Epic teams overseas for vision trips, summer missions, and international internships and getting to join in on what He is already doing. Please continue to pray for our teams and staff overseas with the Coronavirus situation and that this would open up conversations in the

A week after Thailand, we had our annual Mission Director gathering in Oceanside, CA. It was a sweet time to be with friends and to come together lamenting, dreaming, and praying for the Campus Ministry. I really felt the Spirit of the Lord there and it is something that has been much needed. Our last night together, we were able to come together on our knees in prayer for what God has, is, and will do. I'm reminded time and time again that He is already at work and He is inviting us to join Him. What a privilege.

This was by far a highlight of this last month. My mentor started a podcast called Someday is Here and through a lot of prayer and dreaming, we saw our first Live Event come to life. Running the program side of it and getting to create such a sacred space was life-giving and renewing for my soul. Seeing so many Asian American women come to learn together, grow together, and share experiences was an incredible thing to be a part of. It was so needed and I'm excited to see what this will become. Personally, I felt empowered and poured into by so many of our presenters and saw strong women of faith who look like me take the stage with courage and stories that were so relatable. SIH 2021 will be March 6th in SoCal and I can't wait to see how God will move! Look up Someday Is Here to listen to some incredible podcasts!
