Evangelism – Compassion – Discipleship - Prayer

Volume 2, Issue 3 April 2012

From My Heart...

We live in a guilt-based society ruled by the heavy hammer of the law. A man is either guilty or innocent and the guilty always deserve punishment. Easter serves as a reminder that we have been set free from our guilt and our past through Christ sacrifice on the cross. And greater still life, active and passionate life, abounds from the unsealed grave. We all know what we are saved from, the depths of hell and never ending death, but did you ever stop to think what you were saved for?

I am brought back to the Israelites held captive in Egypt. We hear God's cry through Moses; "Let my people go," but that statement ends with a comma not a period. The Lord's full cry is "Let my people go, SO that they may worship me." What are we saved for? We are saved for unbounded worship of our King. God is all about His glory and He is deserving of praise from every tongue. Salvation is not about us or our comfort. It's really not even about being saved from captivity; it's about being saved for the opportunity to enter into the presence of God and lavish our praises. As I begin to live like I was saved for something I begin to see that glorification of our King ushers in the complete freedom of a fulfilled and passionate life; the life Christ brought through conquering death.

Ministry Update

School to the Nations seems to grow everyday and as we expand our staff and our base camp we have the exciting opportunity to expand our reach into the unreached of the world. We are currently working on several new partnerships all over the world, which will bring the Gospel where it has never gone. Our prayer is to begin vision tours into these countries within the next few months. On a vision tour, we would begin to interact with the target people group and develop our vision for long-term investment that would produce indigenous bodies of believers who continue to share the good news. On these vision tours, my role is to dive into the culture, to begin to understand their values, their religion, their fears, and their struggles, so that we can then understand how to introduce them to their Father and King. I am still in need of finances for these trips. Would you prayerfully consider giving a one-time gift?

Prayers

- The Lord's provision and timing for vision tours
- Strength and courage for the church in West Africa
- Peace and democracy to reign in Mali

Praises

- Beginning our team trainings for upcoming outreaches
- 2 new volunteer staff joining my department
- Continued expansions within School to the Nations

Awareness

The past season has been very tumultuous for our family in Mali. Islamic rebels from the North began fighting for power and land and the Malian military was not equipped to protect the people. After the militaries request for more arms was not met they protested and took over the president's palace. This allowed the rebels to progress forward. West African political leaders have begun to broker deals, which will hopefully restore the country to democratic rule. We are praying for peace and democracy to be reestablished in Mali.
