MINISTRY

-It's also been an exciting adventure in ministry. Over the summer, we did a couple more of our Freshman 15 seminars, helping families [students and their parents] transition well from high school to college.

It's been a blessing to learn from the students and families as well as hone our information and delivery. We've also received such great feedback [from returning freshman] and their parents...how helpful and spot-on our advice was. We've enjoyed hearing the stories of success, and praying for breakthroughs.

Please pray for us as we finish up a written version of this. We know we can reach and help more people with either a book or online course!

-We were asked to be the retreat speakers for Cru in San Francisco. We loved the great mix of students that attended and it was in a beautiful location north of the Golden Gate [see picture above].

Their theme was Thrive... and Wendy and I were helping them focus that idea on how to build a relationship with God that is thriving...how to grow closer to each other, in transforming relationships...and how to share Christ with others who may feel hopeless.

Many of the students have had challenging upbringings and are still navigating hard roads. It was an honor to hear their stories of struggle, perseverance, doubt, pain and renewal. To help carry some of that load and pray with them.

Please pray for them as they bring Christ to their campus and community.

— Know we are praying for you, and are always encouraged by your notes and updates!

FALL

I don't know if it hit you like it hit us, but Fall seemed to come fast and furious. We now have a senior, a freshman and a 6th grader. Our heads are spinning.

As a quick family update...Malia is doing great...applying to colleges, has a job at In-n-Out, and bought a car...that she had been saving 2.5 years for. So epic! We're so proud of her.

Carter has begun his high-school years and loves to animate, while also looking to finish his Eagle Scout rank.

Avery still is a multi-tasker... always busy...but, much of her focus is on surfing and improving her skills.
