

Prayer Corner

Praise: God is working in the hearts of my Chinese friends. Last time I met with one to talk about the Bible she said, “I need to read this book from beginning to end!” & a non-Christian friend said, “We can come over and pray for your baby!”

Please pray for Angela, Kayli, and Daniela who I’ve just started discipling and for Will who Zach is meeting with to discuss the Bible.

That we would love God with all our heart, soul, mind, and strength and minister out of an overflow.

For our students in Panama City, FL this week sharing their faith with spring breakers!

Tackling the Tough Questions

At ODU we had a table in the student union with a board where students could write a question they would ask God. This sparked some good conversations with questions ranging from “Are you happy with us?” to “What is the afterlife like?”

Right now our schools are in the middle of a “tough questions” series at our large group meetings. We have invited non-believers to come and hear speakers tackle questions like, “How can a good God allow suffering?” and “Is there only one way to God?” Please pray that God uses this series to draw students to Himself!

“One night after a really bad day she just thought, ‘There has to be more to life than this’ and she’s been thinking about God ever since!” Angela shared during our last discipleship meeting how God brought a recent ODU grad into her life. Angela is now meeting regularly with this woman to study the Bible and has been bringing her to our church, which she loves!

Praise: Our little boy is growing and I’ve been doing well but could use prayer for energy. I just cannot seem to get enough sleep!

Zach and I will find out by the end of March if he has been accepted for a military scholarship that would send us overseas for two years. We love Norfolk but also want to be open to wherever God calls us. Pray that God shuts this door if we are not meant to go. I will keep you posted on the details when we find out! Thank you for praying and giving!

Stephanie Lamb