

WINTER RETREAT 2018 in Chicago

Jayne had the opportunity to go with some of our students and interns to our regional retreat last week! They joined 250 people from other universities in growing in understanding of what it looks like to own our faith and live it out, being devoted to Jesus in every area of life. One of the worship songs that they sang said “I wanna be where You are. I’m letting go of the plans I have made. I give it all..Give You all of my days. Nothing less than my everything. Take my heart Lord, and show me Your way. I wanna be where You are.” (Run51, “Where You Are”) This prayer / song really embodied a lot of the conversations and opportunities that went with the weekend.

It never gets old watching God stirring hearts and minds of men and women who are wrestling with what it looks like to allow God and the Bible to transform more of their hearts, minds, lives & relationships.

Here’s a snapshot of the conversations that were discussed throughout the weekend: talking about trusting God through a broken dating relationship, another athlete not getting the playing time she would hope for, some ladies were seeking God for the “what next” in their lives, and also talking about not being lukewarm in our loyalty to God as the world pulls at us. Its such a privilege to join each other in the journey of seeking Him, knowing His love more & living out of this overflow.

Another extra special moment was God bringing different seasons of ministry together! Dyrek (furthest right in the pic below) went with Kyle to East Asia two summers ago. He is now raising support to join AIA staff and will be serving in Chicago! He was with us for an outreach to young guys who were part of a basketball league held at Moody Bible Institute. God provided an opportunity for Dyrek to share the story of his life and how God delivered him through a really hard childhood with many struggles and uncertainties. He shared how Jesus has given him hope and security that don’t depend on his circumstances. He related with these boys and connected the dots for them in a way that was so powerful!

Prayer Praises & Requests:

Ministry -Please continue to pray for us, especially in the area of men’s ministry, as Kyle seeks to establish and build relationships of trust and favor in the UW athletic department.

Also celebrate with us the staff team God has blessed us with. We work hard and play hard together and its made ministry together really fun!

Personal -Would you please keep George in your prayers. He is having surgery in March for issues in his ears. He has been struggling with gaining words and we are hopeful that this might bring him some extra help hearing.

Ultimate Training Camp Leadership Opportunity

We have the opportunity this coming summer to serve with AIA’s UTC in the Twin Cities. We are so excited for the role we have been asked to focus on as intern coordinators. This means we will be shepherding and equipping student athletes who have gone to camp before, but come back seeking to lead and influence others that are new to the UTC experience. We will be training and developing these young leaders not just for the impact they have at camp, but also as they go back to their campuses. Some of these interns are even from schools that we get to serve here in WI, like Marquette (Kyle shared at their large group this month). Please pray for us as we trust God for the details with this role!
