Ambassadors for Christ

Raising up and sending out servant leaders is a double-edged sword. We love seeing students mature and grow into Christ-centered disciples over the year. But every spring, it's hard to let them go as they launch into the world. College ministry is transient, but discipling men and women toward an eternal mindset is a privilege. We want our seniors to step into post-grad life with a vision for living on mission with God!

Senior sharing at Butler large group

Matt taught about being ambassadors for Christ (2 Corinthians 5:20) at our campus large groups this month. This is a calling for every believer to carry the message of reconciliation to God through Christ. Pray for our seniors to embrace the lifestyle of being an ambassador for Christ.

Our seniors recently shared a reflection on their time involved with AIA. It's encouraging to hear how God has shaped them into the image of Jesus over the years. Knowing God has used our efforts to point them in that direction is humbling. Thank you for upholding us as we labor on the front lines of the college campus!

Hosting Students

We hosted our annual Easter dinner for Indy college athletes. It was a fun time, and our kids enjoyed playing with the college students. There is something powerful about inviting students into our home to get an up-close look at our family. We aren't perfect, but our hope and prayer is they see the gospel at work in our family. For some students who come from strained or broken homes, it encourages them to pursue a different path. We love utilizing hospitality ministry in our home!
