So....where in the world are we?

Our city is huge and modern with plenty of foreign markets although we rarely see other expats. There are multiple Starbucks and everyone seems to love Pizza Hut and KFC here! Every single day people stare at us and ask if our children are twins. Some people speak English, but for the most part you have to get by in the native language - which some days can be really trying! We are grateful though that we live on the 31st floor with a direct view and bike ride to the main university campus in this city of 6+ million. Our entire region though currently holds 3.6 million college students. It is almost overwhelming each time we step on campus knowing we are the only full-time missionaries here in this city to reach these students. We have been praying for direction and to especially capitalize on the major US holidays by having multiple parties inviting 50+ to each party at our home while giving a gospel presentation at each party. Pray that the students who are especially open to Jesus will come and that we will see 7-14 choose to follow Him within this year!

Meet Jack

Nich came home beaming one day because he had such an awesome conversation with a student named Jack (pictured 3rd from right). He met him during the first week of school, and has often been able to spend time with him and his roommates. Nich even got to attend PE class with them! But this particular afternoon, Nich asked if Jack had ever heard of Jesus and share with him the story of his birth, death and resurrection. Although Jack is agnostic, he enjoys talking about life and our purpose here on earth, and has indicated a desire to study the teachings and claims of Jesus. Pray for Jack, his roommates, and the opportunities that Nich gets to spend time with him and his dorm mates to talk about life and love!

The Most Beautiful Mountain

Nich, Steven and Peter got to take a much needed break and men's getaway to one of the most picturesque mountains in the country. It was really timely as the men and women on our team needed time to just talk through some recent areas of conflict and bond together more deeply. We are realizing as a team that our goal is to bring students to know Him intimately, but we can't do that without loving God and our team first. Pray with us that we can especially use the holidays to connect more deeply as a family and not just as a team.

We are continually adjusting here...

Some days we feel more homesick than others, but we are also seeing God encourage us to keep pressing on. We'd love prayers for us as language has constantly challenged our competency and ability to live here. We know God can use us beyond knowing a language fluently but it really can be a struggle. Please pray for us to grasp a heart for the people and that each day we can minister more effectively in the people's heart language.

We are so thankful for you! Your prayers, support and partnership are essential to God's ministry in changing students' lives and ultimately the world through Jesus. God continues to use you mightily in our lives, as well as the lives of college students in East Asia and around the world.

Blessings,
