Refreshed and Re-centered

An amazing blessing we had this past month was the opportunity to travel to Thailand for our STINT mid-year conference! It was warm and refreshing to be with 100+ other Stinters from all over East Asia. We didn't realize this but there were a handful of other parents our age with 2-3 kids each. The kids absolutely loved childcare and we bonded with the parents really well.

Our Epic coaches, Dennis and Carita, came from Texas to help us individually process how the year has been for us, talk about developing our strategy to reach our campus, and helped Nich and I think through how we can lead more effectively.

We always feel blessed by the care and love that goes into our leadership development by Epic and Cru. There are not many jobs where your boss asks "How are you relating to God lately?" and "How have you been feeling?" let alone be praying for us constantly!

A Desperate Need: Men!

One of the main reasons we committed to staying here a consecutive 2 years was to provide consistency with our Stint teams. We know if there are leaders that are committed, then you can count on there being a team! As of just last month, we only knew that Priscilla, our one ICS (International Campus Staff - assigned here for 3-5 years) would be here with us next year. But we just found out our two single gals, Bao and Jamie, decided to come back too! Steven, unfortunately, won't be with us because he's a second-year intern and Epic only allows you to intern two years. Most of our thinking is: "Wow, despite our many shortcomings as leaders, God is blessing with us with almost all of our team committing to come back next year! Thank you God!" We also have two women that we know of who have applied to come. If so, we will have 6 women including Tricia.

So, as you can see, we have the great task of trying to recruit men. We know of teams that only had one male who was the leader, like Nich, but we really desire to have men so we can reach the men on our campus and to create better dynamics on our team. Priscilla said: "I love women, but there might be a little too many hormones going around! We need men!" We agree!

If you know of any recent college graduates or college seniors that might be interested in coming on a year long adventure with us from next year August 2105 - June 2016, and are passionate about reaching students for Christ, please tell them our need and give us their contact info!

As always, we are so thankful to partner alongside you in this ministry, as we reach students for Christ here in East Asia.

Blessings,

NICH & Tricia
