Dearest Supporters,

Last month, I shared about my sorority sisters at USC. In the meantime, two women in Alpha Delta Pi have decided to trust in Christ! I was blessed to see my “little sister” Christina again last week. Now a senior, she’s elated to see significant growth in the community of Christians on campus, especially on fraternity and sorority row. Christina noted that when I was a senior, prayers were being laid for the Greek houses. Those requests and recent prayers for these students have been very powerful!

It’s funny how patience can be so rewarding. I was erupting with joy last week after a reunion with my freshman year roommate! Yumi and I met for lunch when she visited L.A. Over the past seven years, Yumi and I have developed a unique bond. We met in the dorms and grew even closer while I was in Tokyo. When we ran to embrace each other after 15 months, I couldn’t help but praise God for this friendship! We had a sweet time together and exchanged small gifts. When I handed her the book, The Hole in Our Gospel, she asked, “What is gospel?” So I summarized some of the discussions we’ve had before and explained the good news of Jesus!

Another opportunity for ministry has been over the Internet. Campus Crusade for Christ has a website designed to answer students’ questions about life and God. There are many alluring and helpful articles including one called, “Why the DNA Structure Points to God.” Students can email staff with questions regarding the articles or their personal thoughts. Answering some of these emails has been an amazing and humbling privilege!

One student wrote, “I feel scared to ask Jesus to come into my life. Is this common? How can I overcome this fear? Thank you.”

This student had visited <http://www.everystudent.com/features/gettingconnected.html> where he read four main principles to knowing God personally. Although I’ve never met this student, I got to tell him how God can comfort him in his fears and help him surrender his life. It brings me so much joy to see people seeking God’s truth and love!

Please
Pray

- for the staff and students at and nearby Cal State Fullerton
- for students to come to know God through everystudent.com
- for me to raise my support according to God’s plan

Grace and Peace,

Christina
