Dear Friend,

One of my recent joys is meeting with a student named Mikoto. She stepped up to lead prayer for our ministry at the weekly meeting, and I'm there to support her. Over pancakes, Mikoto honestly shared that she's super nervous to pray out loud in a group. When she was first asked to lead prayer this past summer for a mission trip, she was horrified. But what I love is that she sees how God is changing her. Although her heart still beats fast, she's more eager and excited to pray with and for others.

Mikoto is also passionate about taking what she learned this past summer to her campus. There are a handful of other Christians alongside her at Tokyo Christian Women's University. Mikoto wants to see more chances for them to have fellowship with non-Christians and share God's love with them.

She saw pictures from lunchtimes on other campuses and is considering how to adapt those ideas for her own university.

Mikoto, our faithful prayer leader.

There is also a school festival coming up on November 9th. Mikoto and some fellow believers are planning a waffle café. They'll also serve coffee and take turns sharing their own testimonies of coming to know Jesus. When I talked with Mikoto about her future and various ways she is leading and serving, one of the opportunities she is most expectant for is this café. She really desires to get to know people from her school more deeply, let them know about Jesus, and then see them trust in Him. Please join in prayer for Mikoto!

Your prayers for the dance ministry are also invaluable! Last week we had a blast with dinner, Bible study, dancing and celebrating the leader, Megumi's birthday. Please keep praying!

In Christ,

Christina

At our last dance ministry gathering, there was no shortage of celebration for Megumi's birthday.

Please pray for ~
