

Dear Ben and Jill,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $10000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $12000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Nathan and Joanna,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $6000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $8000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Dave and Ellie,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $5000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $7500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Tim and Holly,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $5000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $7500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Peter and Diana,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $4000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $5000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Garrett and Colleen,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $4000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $6000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Gail and Andrew,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $3000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $4000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Philip and Victoria,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $3000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $4000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Ling Yi and Leslie,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $3000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $4000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Ryan,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $3000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $5000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Dave and Mary Anne,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $2500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $4000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Rob and Suzie,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $2500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $4000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Dan and Anna,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $2000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $3000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Dylan and Emily,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $2000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $3000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Joe and Kim,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $2000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $5000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Chris and Esther,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $2000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $3000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Grant and Andrea,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $2000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $3000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Phil and Anne,

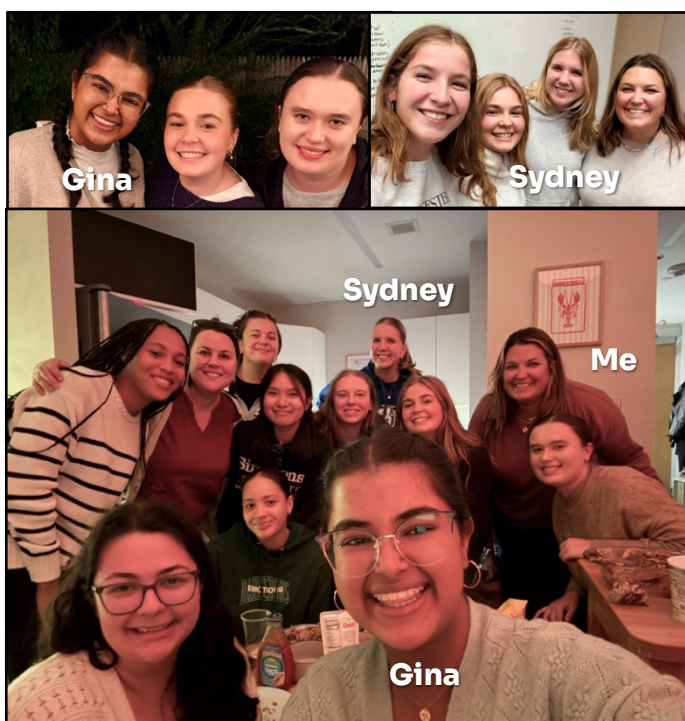

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $3000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Vivian and Nick,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $3000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Stephen and Patricia,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $3000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Brian and Heather,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $3000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Dwight and Marijo,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $3000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Dave and Kristen,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1370. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $2000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Joe and Alison,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1200. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Theo and Lucy,

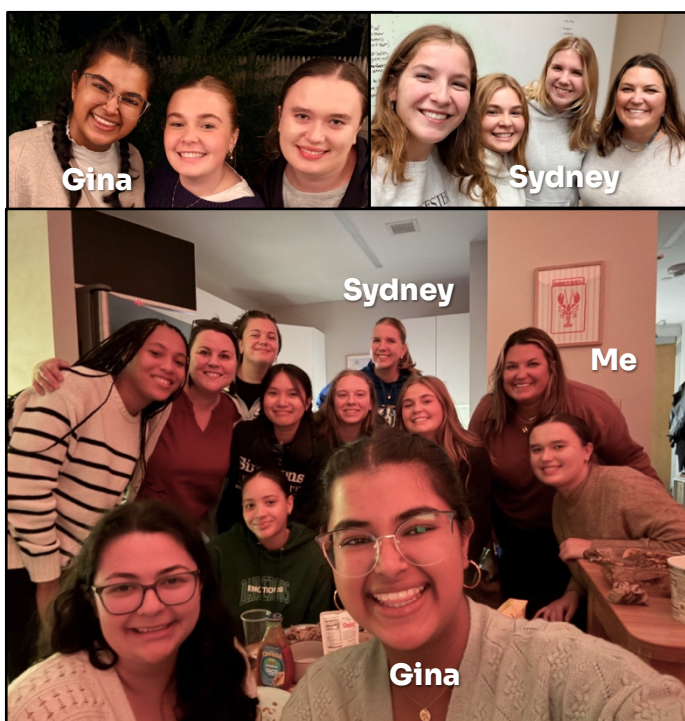

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1200. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Daniel and Suzanne,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Jim and Ashley,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $2000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Phyllis,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Raymond and Janice,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear John and Patti,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $2000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Bart and Martha,

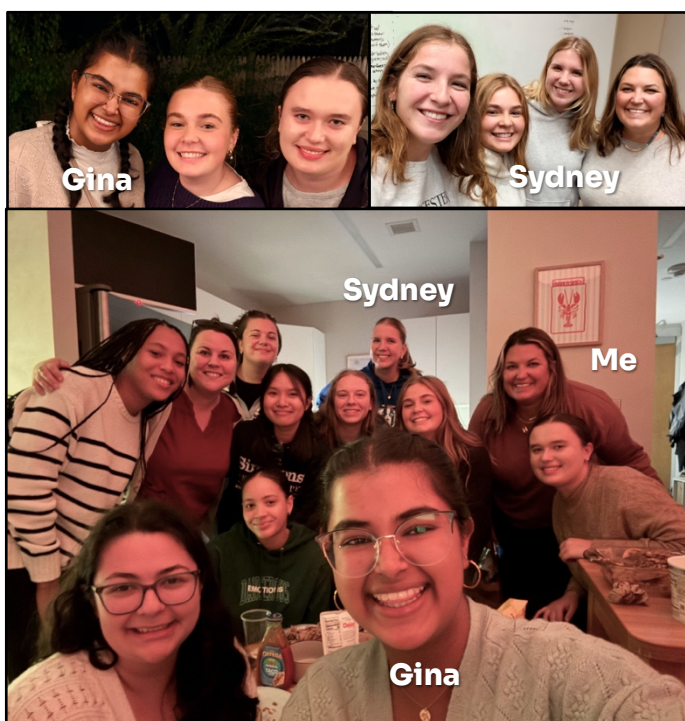

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Bob and Pam,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Dustin and Grace,

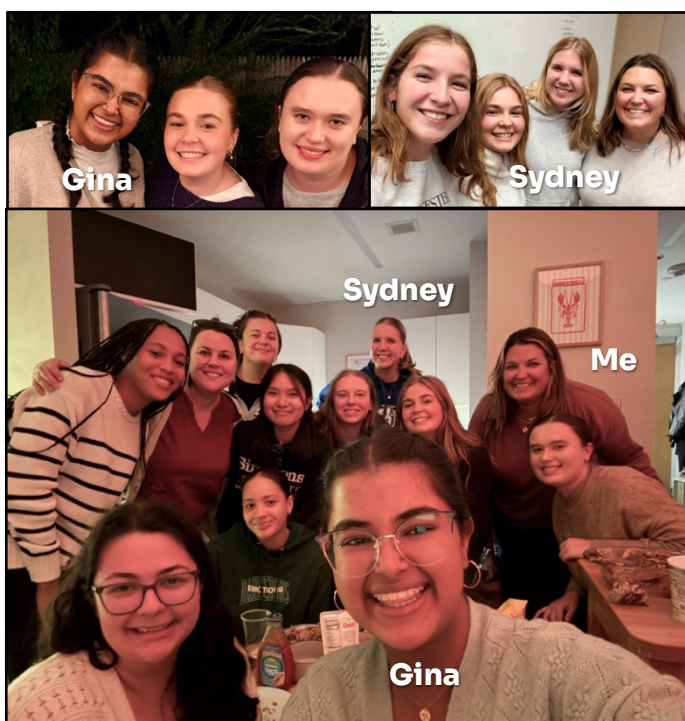

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Kathy,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Roland and Nelia,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $2000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Andrew and Aline,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Rob and Linda,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Ned and Meghan,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Mark and Julie,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $1000. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $2000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Brian and Kat,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $770. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Isaac and Subhashini,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Mike and Elizabeth,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Laura and Phil,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Dave and Courtney,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Dave and Kirstin,

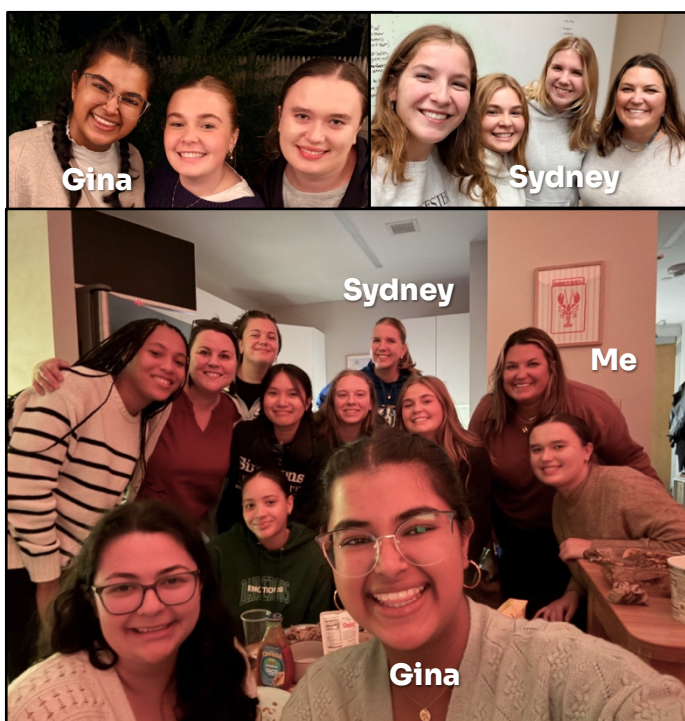

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear John and Pam,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Eldon and Susan,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Cheryl,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Kevin and Jenny,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Ethan,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Rick and Suzy,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Trudy,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Matthew and Candice,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $500. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Jeffrey and Heather,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $400. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $1000?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Stan,

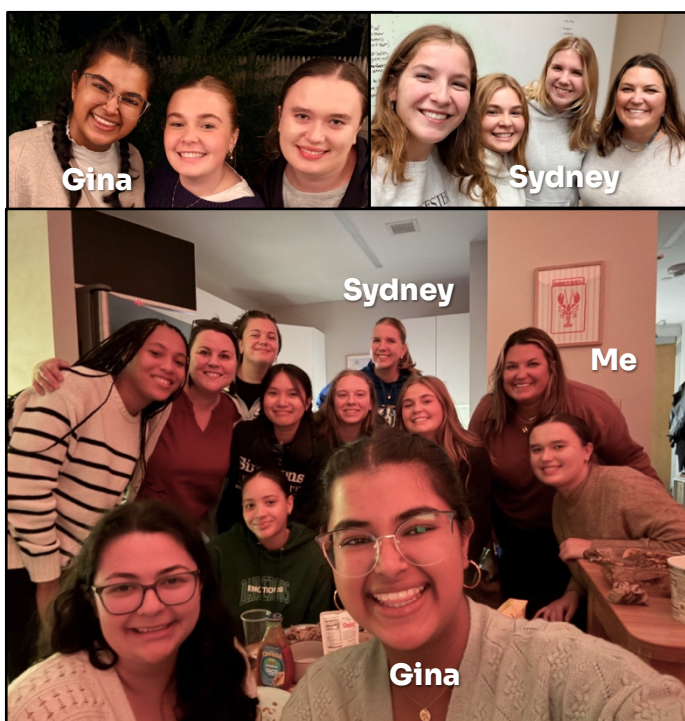

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $300. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Jimmy and Melissa,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $300. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Nduka and Chinyere,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $300. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Jolynn,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $300. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Dorothy,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $300. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Rich and Elsie,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $300. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Chris and Kim,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $300. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear George and Deborah,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $250. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Cynthia,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $250. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Kimie,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $250. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Nick and Sarah,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $250. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear John and Kara,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $250. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Tung and Rikka,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $250. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear John and Nancy,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $250. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Jeff and Cathy,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $250. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Ted and Lynda,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $250. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Allen and Nan,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $250. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Andrew and Jen,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $250. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Brian and Jessica,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $250. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Mike and Hanneke,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $250. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Glen and Cindy,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $200. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Mike and Nan,

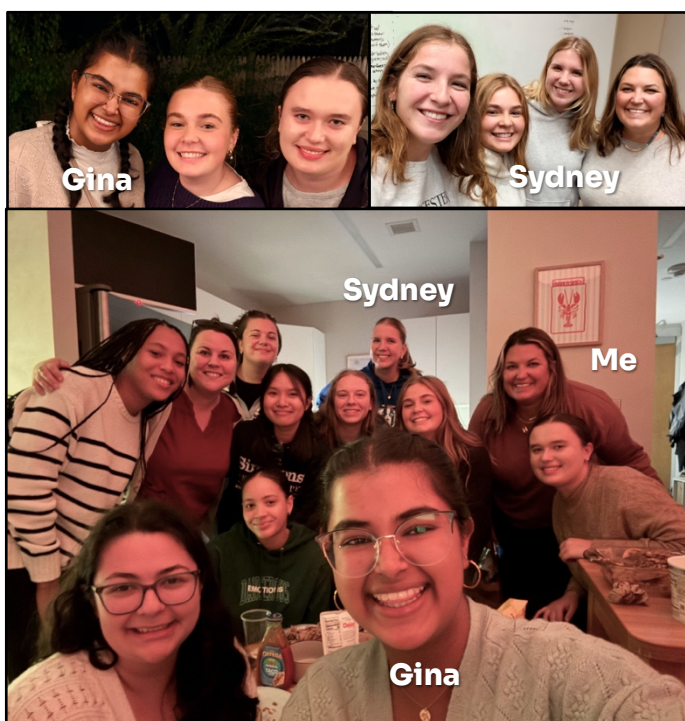

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $200. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Joe and Theresa,

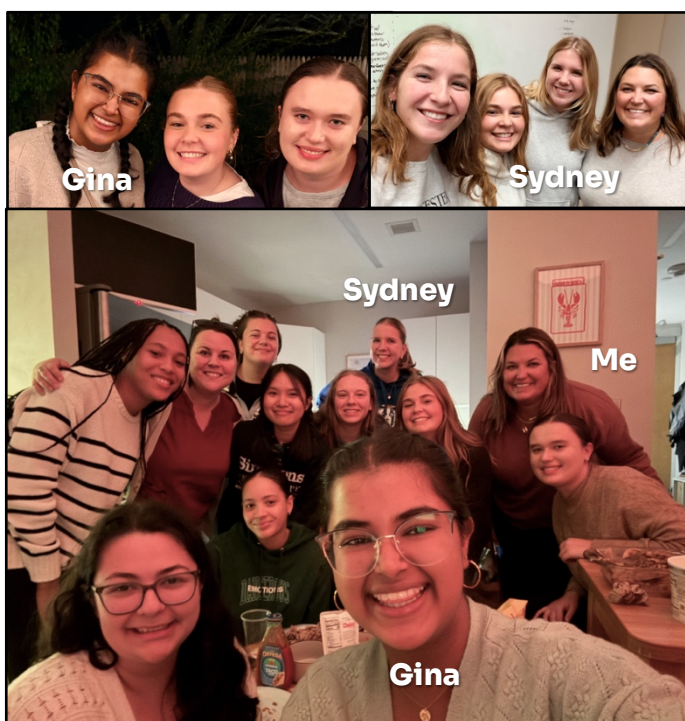

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $200. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Joseph and Sandy,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $200. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Ben and Jill,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $200. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Robert and Deb,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $150. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $250?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Brian and Freddie,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $100. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Eddy and Jill,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $100. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Elliot and Sarah,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $100. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Thang and Hanna,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $100. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear David and Becky,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $100. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Kim and Cliff,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $100. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Kevin,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $100. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Shirley and Kenneth,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $100. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Erin,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $100. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Joe and Khiengchai,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $100. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $250?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Bryan and Lisa,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $100. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Jen and Phil,

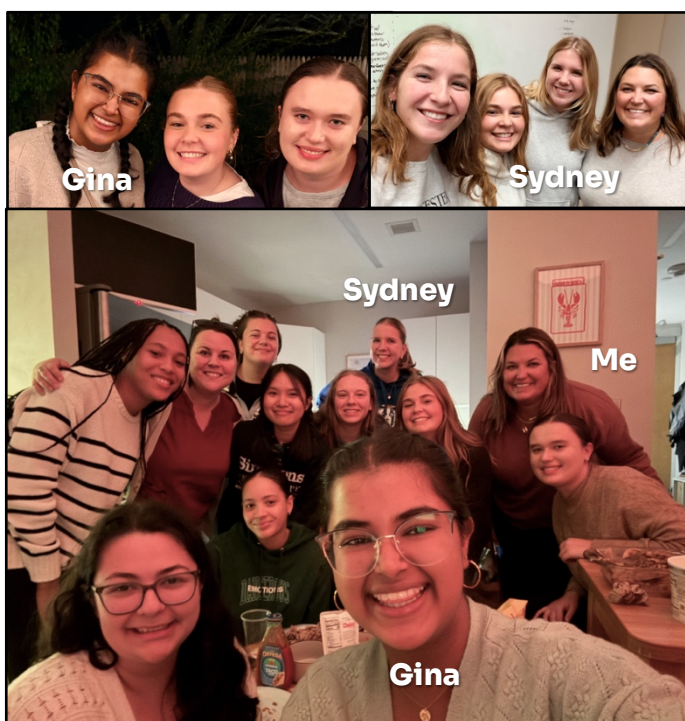

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $100. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear John,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $100. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Jeff and Linh,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $100. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear PJ and Julie,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $100. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $500?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Mary,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $100. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Dave and Cec,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $75. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Wayne,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $50. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Eric and Brenda,

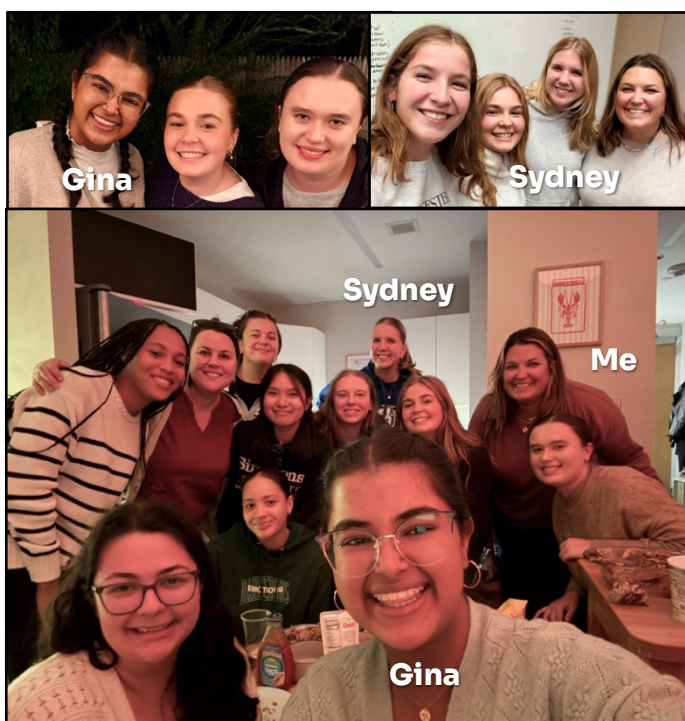

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $50. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Holly,

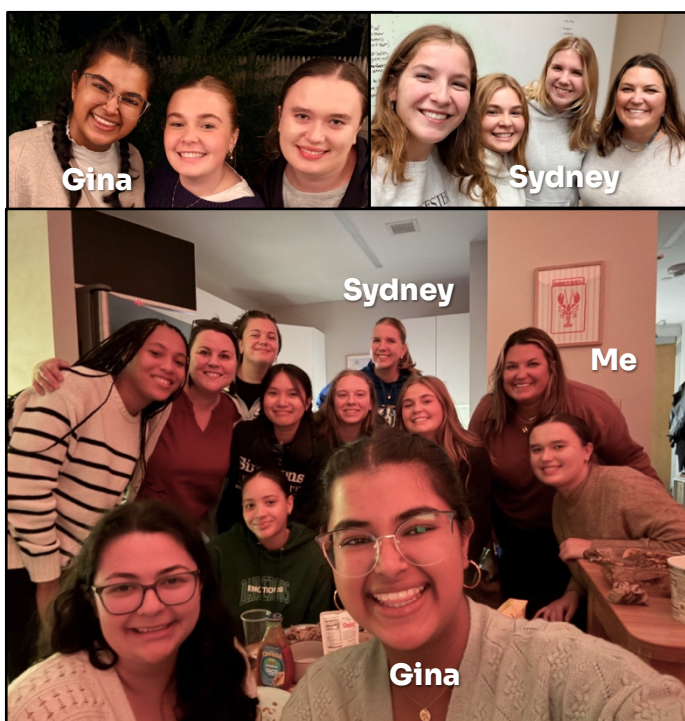

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $50. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Adrian and Tara,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $50. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Ed and Carole,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $50. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Ruth,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $50. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Pete and Ramona,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $50. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear MaryJane,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $50. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Cheryl,

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $50. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Sue,

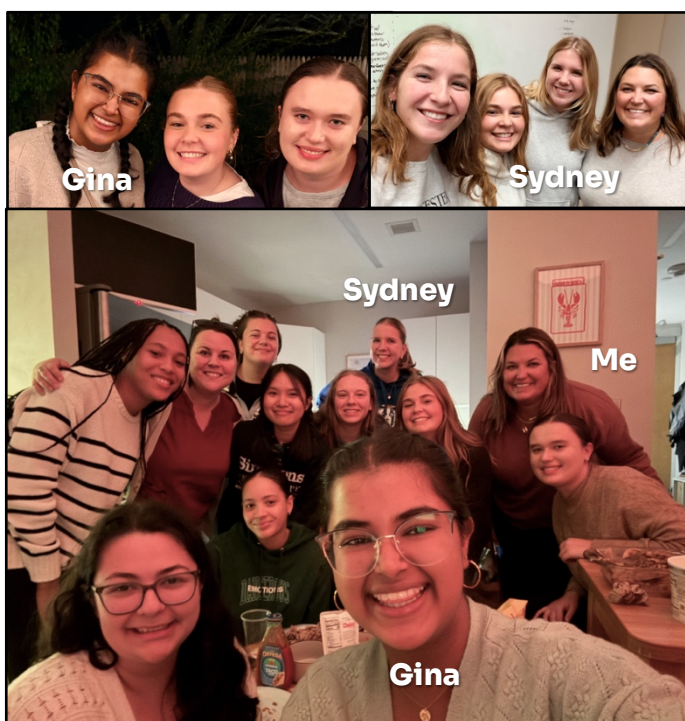

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $25. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Dear Dave and Jan,

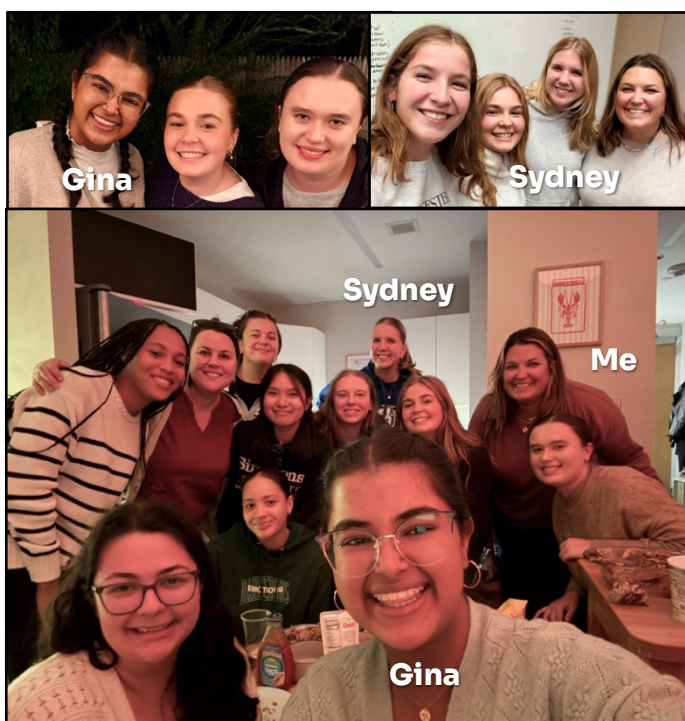

"I have always wanted to go on a mission trip, but I don't know enough about sharing the gospel to go." That's what Gina told me this summer. Many students I work with feel the same. They want to go on a mission trip but are nervous about sharing the gospel or are worried about raising up a team of ministry partners to support them. But despite these insecurities, Gina and her friend Sydney have jumped onboard to spend this summer with us overseas.

The gospel clicked for Gina her freshman year and Sydney just before her sophomore year. Gina and Sydney keep inviting more girls to the bible study I lead on their campus, and it keeps growing (see the pic).

I am confident that Gina and Sydney are going to grow in their love and depth of knowledge of the Gospel this summer with us as they learn to engage cross culturally, ask good questions, listen to others spiritual journeys, and point people to Christ by sharing the Gospel.

Would you help us take Gina and Sydney to Marseille, France this summer?

Brian just got back from a trip to Marseille to make plans for the summer. He kept hearing: "We need more gospel workers." "There are not enough missionaries in Marseille." "We are so thankful that you will come."

Gina and Sydney keep inviting their friends to follow Jesus. This summer, we'd love you to help take them to Marseille.

Why send to Marseille?

This summer, we're taking a team to Marseille, France. Atheistic Europeans and Muslims from North Africa and the Middle East live together side by side. But in this city, the hope of Jesus is just a little spark. Of the students here, only one in 500 is a believer. That means that the average student in Marseille knows zero followers of Jesus. When we visited this week, we kept hearing about the need for people to share the gospel with students.

I'd love you to consider a significant gift to help kick off this new partnership.

How can you help mobilize?

To kick-start this new summer mission, and to kick-start missions sending from New England again, we're asking all the team leaders we coach to come with us this summer. With their families. With their top students. To reach students in Marseille, France for Christ.

The Need

There are some significant costs: For each family ~ $15,000. For each student ~$6,000. To send 25 staff and 30 students on a mission this summer to Marseille will cost about $330,000.

Triple Your Impact

If you make a gift this Christmas, you'll have a triple impact:

- First, you're making an impact for the Ellis family – giving at Christmas makes up 30% of our annual support which means you're keeping the gospel in front of students.
- Second, you'll be helping students like Gina and Sydney have gospel conversations with students in France. Many of those we share with will return to countries in North Africa and the Middle East where it's even harder to send missionaries.
- Finally, you'll be helping support missionary families going overseas for the first time. We'll put your gift to work to get our team leaders on mission.

You've done this before.

In the last partnership you helped launch to the Middle East, over 2 dozen of the people who came with us went on to full-time missions work for at least a year. That partnership continues to bear fruit. Brian and I hope to get back there soon.

Can you imagine with us a similar result with this new generation of leaders?

Our prayer is that at least 30% of participating students this summer pursue Cru internships after graduation.

This is a first step toward a new wave of missionary sending to the world.

Would you give?

We send a letter like this every year at the end of the year.

Every year, you and many others like you respond so generously.

We are trusting God for $80,000 in special gifts this year. Again, this is a big amount but will have triple the impact this year. Every dollar you donate will help fully fund our ministry to students in Boston and across New England and go a long way toward getting our team to Marseille and starting a new partnership.

In the past, you've sometimes been able to give $25. Would you pray and consider a stretch gift of $200?

A gift before December 31 lets Malisa and I keep meeting up with students to share Christ, disciple student leaders, send students to the world, and keep innovating to reach the next generation with the good news.

Would you help us say "we're coming"?

Our new friends in Marseille have said, "We need more gospel workers."

Because of you, we can say, "we're coming."

Thank you.

Loving our Adventurous Lord,

Malisa + Brian

P.s. Thank you for helping kick-start missions sending from New England. You can give online at www.brianandmalisa.com or by returning the included card. Your gift by December 31 helps us lead well and will help us take our team and students to the world this summer.

Malisa and Brian, I'd like to invest in changed lives, and I'd like to give to launch a new partnership in Marseille, France.

Here's a gift of: $_____

I've included a check made out to "Cru", or given online at www.brianandmalisa.com

