

Notes From Dan and DeAnn!

Why Do We Call Senior Bible Studies "Action Groups?"

It is because of guys like these! Many of these guys I've had the privilege of working with since they were freshmen. Two of them came to know Christ in college. Three of them had a complete 180 change in the past year and a half of their lives. Five of them have been used by the Lord to lead others to Christ. All of them have shared their faith multiple times. And each of them have taken serious steps of faith!

Their past is exciting but their future and what these men are embarking on is even more so. Cole is spending this next year in East Asia and Evan is spending it in 4J as fulltime overseas missionaries. Tyler is interning with CCC at UW-Madison. Paul is entering seminary. Bryan is going to be attending grad school to be a Physician's Assistant with the goal of using his training in Africa. Zac is entering the military and will bring a humble spirit and the light of the gospel to a dark place. Eric is planning on being a lawyer and the way he will be a lawyer, impacting the world for Christ's kingdom, is completely different than if he had graduated two years ago. Josh is an engineer and it has been amazing to see him grow and follow the Lord. He has been a Christian for a little over a year now and he is not shy about speaking up and telling others about Jesus. Clayton is going to grad school in agricultural science. Andy is going to grad school to be a physical therapist. And it looks like Artur will be taking his business degree and working at Google. Clayton, Andy and Artur go forward as Christians first and will be involved in changing the world for Christ. Pretty exciting isn't it!

So much of who I am and what I pursue I get from others. Being around men who pursued God and his kingdom instead of their personal desires saved me from a lot of sin and challenged me to live for something greater.

-Evan

So from these men, there are businessmen and engineers, future pastors and a future physician's assistant, missionaries and lawyers. But whatever they end up doing, these men love the Lord first! They are called by him and they will be world changers. They are sent ones! Thanks for laboring with us to build these men up in their faith. It is a privilege to work with you to see these things happen!

Continuing Education

This summer we are taking classes to better prepare us to minister to the current generation of college students. We will wade through Romans, Apologetics, and Systematic Theology courses. Already it has been beneficial. Please pray for us that we would grow and be more equipped this coming fall. (More on this in the next letter!)
