Here I am going through the gospel with Brian.

We got to do a couple team meetings. Here LucyMar is presenting to the men's basketball team.

Is mofongo really a food? —Puerto Rico Update!

First of all—mofongo is a food AND it is tasty. It's not good for you, but very tasty. It's made of fried plantains with stuff on top. (I have a story about this that you'll have to watch on the video!)

There is always a cost involved in any decision you make. I asked myself if the cost to travel to Puerto Rico was worth it.

Well, Brian made a decision to receive Christ during our trip! In the midst of all that happened, this decision made it worth it!

Brian had just finished his track career at the University of Puerto Rico but we found him still sitting in the athletic department. We talked for awhile and I went through a short gospel presentation. I then grabbed one of Puerto Rican staff and introduced them. LucyMar was able to share again (sometimes it takes a one-two punch I guess lol!) and Brian put his faith in Christ!

The coolest part of the story was when I reached out to Brian on my last day in-country to see if we could get together. He had already left campus for the day but replied that he'd been doing good and "seeing God's work these last few days." That is what it is all about- God at work. Thanks for praying for the trip and for open hearts. We got to share with many students and plant many seeds. Praise God, Brian had a heart ready for the harvest!

We are hopeful (no that) we can launch a 3 year partnership in Puerto Rico! We are currently trying to get the details ironed out but it looks very promising. The idea will be to take students from the states to PR and see them engaged in mission work as well as help the local PR staff to raise up new movements on new campuses. Please pray for wisdom!

Prayer requests: 1) We've been following up on the contacts from the baseball team at UTSA. Would you pray for those who are spiritually open? 2) The UTSA's men's tennis team has 6 international players and two U.S. players. They all asked me to get in touch with them! Be praying that God would use the ministry here to touch the nations through athletes like these tennis players! Thanks!

Another video is up! "The story behind the story" is at www.dananddeann.com/videos. Sharing more about Puerto Rico and the connection to our neighborhood in San Antonio. Also sharing about the way God worked through us going to a local church in PR.

Thank you for being part of this ministry here in San Antonio with us. We could not do it without you!!! Your prayers and support are indispensable!
