

Happy Holidays from the Hares

Macon and Katy Hare  406 Greenland Ct, Sanford, FL 32771

Dear Friends,

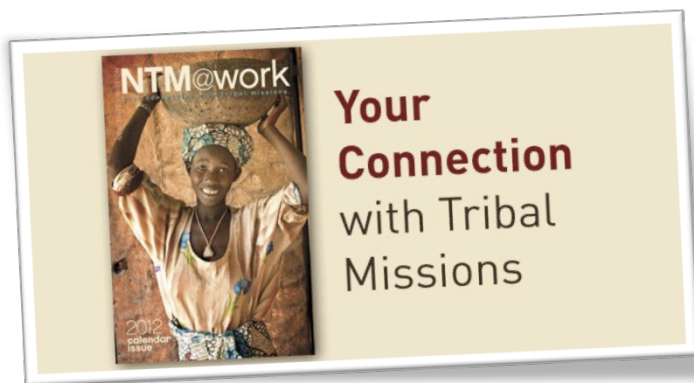

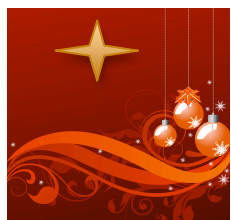

You make a great partner! God is doing incredible things all over the world. Just look at the photos in the 2012 Calendar issue from NTM@Work. (Didn't get your copy? Order yours free at 1.800.321.5375 and some to give away this season.)

I can recall standing right next to the tribal people as each snapshot was taken. God stirred my heart as I heard their stories of faith or the tribal missionary's testimony of how God is answering your prayers. The Gospel of Jesus Christ is reaching beyond our borders and into the remotest areas of the world. God gets the glory and you get our unabashed gratitude for supporting this ministry. Thank you.

May your holiday be a little brighter as you contemplate the Light of God spreading out from that long ago starry night and into the hearts of tribal people all over the world? Your support for us is reaping eternal results.

Because He came, we keep going.

*Merry Christmas,
Macon & Katy*

Macon holds the camera for photographer Dale. Macon and Dale make quite a team. You'll be hearing about upcoming trips in 2012.

Jeremy and Judy Hare, Natania and Thalia

Jeremy and Judy have decided to continue in Guam as he flies for the newly merged United Airlines (Continental and United). Natania started 2nd grade this year. We were so impressed by her great reading skills during our October visit. Thalia is in K-4 and excited about learning. Both girls are homeschooled and Judy is amazing as she juggles home and school.

Jessica and Connie Sergio

Connie is now in kindergarten and having a great year. She recently lost her first tooth. Jessica, now a licensed massage therapist, looks for full time employment. This has been a year full of challenges and milestones for Jessica. We are so proud of the woman she has become. Thanks for praying for Jessica and Connie.

Daryl and Aleyda Young

Daryl stays incredibly busy at work, while managing opportunities to play at a couple of amateur golf events. He does quite well, according to Aleyda. She is now teaching Spanish to middle school students. District downsizing is effecting a lot of teaching jobs, but she is grateful to teach and up for the challenges.

Macon and Katy

Our 10-day visit to Guam to see the grand girls was wonderful, but way too short. A layover in Honolulu gave us the opportunity visit Pearl Harbor and the Pacific Memorial Cemetery. Katy laid a wreath at the foot of her Uncle Jerry's WWII memorial wall. His ship went down 68 years ago, this month; in the same waters that Jeremy flies over, regularly; a reminder of the freedoms for which we are grateful. Macon spends Thanksgiving in Spain, then home for Christmas and New Year.

A Blessed Holiday to you all.
