"GOD IS LOVE" – Chains be broken
October 2016

Building spiritual movements everywhere so that everyone knows someone who truly follows Jesus

I have been challenged more to pray in the power and authority of the Holy Spirit, to pray for a breaking of chains and for freedom in Christ's death and resurrection. I was reminded that in my own life and in the lives of those I've interacted with that our battle is not again flesh and blood but against the spiritual forces of evil (Eph 6). Would you text me or email if there are things that I can be praying for and join me in praying specifically this next month we would see chains be broken, lives be healed, eyes be opened, and that Christ would be revealed.

This is our AMAZING South East Asia STINT (short term international) team! I had the blessing of going for a few days this past month to meet and encourage and pray with them as they are adjusting to a new normal. We got to go and sit in a few English clubs and in my short interactions with students and national staff, I am encouraged by what the Lord is doing! He is on the move. Would you pray with me for this team and especially as the holidays are approaching, that they would not be home sick, that they would continue to grow in unity as a team, and they would continue to take steps of faith in ministry?

This picture was taken at UCLA's weekly meeting. Having been on staff with Epic (the Asian American contextualized ministry of Cru), one of the greatest things is seeing and experiencing the partnership we have as one organization. I was asked by some staff friends of mine to come and speak at their weekly meeting and I was encouraged to see what the Lord is doing on this campus through their Greek ministry, Ethnic ministries, International ministry, and more. This is the largest group I've spoken to and it was a lot of fun! Thank you for your continual prayers!

Another highlight this month was getting to travel to Pennsylvania for Fall Retreat. It was such an encouraging time to be with some of our movements from the East Coast and to get time with our staff and students. I had the opportunity to give a seminar on the Holy Spirit and my heart was so encouraged. The Lord gave me sweet, refreshing opportunities to meet with individuals and to see Him at work and to affirm my gifts of teaching and relationships. I'm grateful. Would you continue to pray for our East Coast movements and that He would raise up this next generation of leaders for His Kingdom?
