

From New England to New York

What do you mean from New England to New York?

I am going to serve in the same role, Local Mission Director (LMD) for New York instead of New England.

Why?

For as long as I can recall, I have offered my life to God saying, "I'm willing to go anywhere and do anything."

More than a year ago the Local Mission Directors (LMD) in New York announced they were leaving staff to serve in their local church. Since then, our Campus Ministry Executive Team sought the Lord and invited several different leaders to consider serving as the LMD for New York, but no one said yes. As early as September, I had the idea that perhaps we should seek to replace me in New England and I should be the LMD for New York.

I have some relationship with people in New York. For those of you with me from the '80's and early 90's, you will recall my first assignment with Cru was at the State University of New York at Stony Brook. In all sorts of ways, New York has been a part of my life and ministry since then.

So this year, I took a baby step. My shoulder surgery in late September meant I wasn't driving in the fall. Without traveling around New England, I had time to begin calling some of the team leaders in NY once a month. My heart moved even more for them wanting them to have good, helpful leadership.

Fast forward to where we are now.... The Executive Team successfully hired a couple currently serving with Cru in Boston to become the LMD's for New England. Tomorrow morning I'm meeting with this couple to talk about our transition plan for New England. But it is official I am the Local Mission Director for New York.

Does this mean you are moving again?

No. I will be able to stay in Clinton, Massachusetts. Yay!

It will mean more overnight travel to be on the ground with them.

Thank you for your partnership with me on this Great Adventure of life and ministry with the Lord. May God bear fruit through us for His glory.

Because God is still rescuing people for Himself,

Liz
