Dear Friends,

Your partnership with me helps our northeast leadership development team get workers to campuses around the northeast and the world. I'd like you to hear what some of our new interns are doing.

Angie Allen (middle first row, brown jacket) is helping to follow up 800 Harvard students who received Bibles from our staff and students.

Soon to be married Matt Litchfield (top left in green shirt) and Rebecca Johnson (tall blond second row) report from UMass-Dartmouth, "UMD has 16 people signed up for Fall Retreat already!! We're really excited and certainly have our work cut out for us!"

Jessica Overbey and Rachel Havrilla (to the left and right of Angie) are spearheading a new women's outreach at Bunker Hill Community College in Boston.

Charlene Chan (front right) is at Cornell where our staff and students are connecting with over 100 students who don't know Jesus.

Jeremiah Noordhoek (red shirt on left) reports from MIT, "MIT has seen some incredible things over the last few weeks! We received 114 contact cards from freshmen who were interested in getting involved with Cru, which is 10% of the incoming freshmen class at MIT!"

Chris (not pictured) is hanging out with students on a campus in a closed country in East Asia. He writes carefully, "Last week, someone came to Dad and I'm so amazed at how quickly he's absorbing the Good News. There's another student that expressed to me how much he wants to learn more about JC and he believes I am the guy who can teach him."

Our interns at the August Orientation Briefing, a time of preparation for full time ministry before sending them off to their campus assignments

Saturday, I ended my one day spiritual retreat with a walk on Crane's Beach.

As you can see, your prayers and finances are making an impact on college students on Ivy League Campuses, Community Colleges, and in other countries! Thank you.

Grateful for you,
