

3 Amazing Things We've Seen in Cities This Year

Chris Pun will be an intern with us in New York City. He started school as a freshman 4 years ago at Medgar Evers in NYC as a lost student. A year later he came to faith. Early in his faith he sought to help others know God. Now he wants to return to campus as an intern to reach next year's freshmen and continue to build into student's lives.

A most remarkable time of harvest in Boston with new believers - too many to count (+50)!

If anything could equal what we saw the Lord do in Boston this year, it's what He did in our STINT team's Middle Eastern city from Valentine's Day to Patriot's Day, April 20. Over thirty came to Christ! A great harvest for the STINT teams, International Campus Staff, and the National staff in this gateway city.

In my current Cru role, you and I are similar in a way. Like you, I am a step removed from the day to day of sharing the truth of God's redeeming work with students and faculty. So it is good to know that the work I do every day results in people hearing about how great and loving God is and that many are coming to believe in Him. Chris in New York, 50+ in Boston, 30+ in our Middle East partnership city are a great testimony to the truth that God is still at work drawing this generation of students to Christ.

Celebrate in giving thanks to God for this is HIS work through the people on the ground in these cities and the people who have helped them get there. Thank you for being one of those people.

Grateful to see the handiwork of God,

Liz
