MIT Freshmen Orientation Week Events - Free Ice Cream & Boba Tea Social

We're so thankful for these opportunities to connect with students and we pray for things like free chicken and free boba tea to be so much more than free food. We hope these gifts turn into ongoing spiritual and gospel conversations.

There's a lot of excitement on campus, especially among the freshmen class. At the same time, we've met freshmen who are also nervous, anxious, and looking to make friends and find community. Please pray for our Cru communities to be places where students feel welcome and where they experience the love and grace of Jesus.

I'm sharing these pictures from MIT to give you a window into the work we are doing throughout New England (really on campuses all over the world).

Please pray for God to sustain our staff, students, and faculty. I'm praying for myself, our staff, our students and faculty to abide in Christ and live in the power of the Holy Spirit and be witnesses to Jesus - that God may use us to bring others to faith in Jesus.

I'm traveling to Denver September 11-15 for a few days of meetings with the Executive Directors and the other Mission Directors from around the US. I'm looking forward to what God has for us. Please pray I have ears to hear from the Lord.

Upon my return I'll have my regular leadership connection with all the New England team leaders. This summer and fall I, along with others, have been planning for two conferences being held in November. One is for junior and seniors, called Next. And the other is a retreat for all the campus ministry staff living in New England. Along with my other responsibilities, I'll be working on these from now till Thanksgiving.

September 28th, I will have rotator cuff surgery on my left shoulder. (I'm left handed.) One of my sisters will come to help me for two+ weeks while I figure out how to do life with one hand, fix meals, and drive me to the doctors for follow up and to physical therapy. I'm very thankful to have her help.

And I'm thankful for you. I could never do all this if it weren't for our partnership in the gospel.

Because God is seeking and saving,
