Campus Conversations

One day at the University at Buffalo (UB) we went out to talk to students about their thoughts about God. We met Frank a Sophomore, Computer Science major who believes in an all powerful Creator. One of his desires is to see all peoples and cultures unified. This opened the door to share about the Creator who reconciles His people to one another in the body of Christ (Ephesians 2). Frank was intrigued by the invitation to join God's family, made up of every tribe, tongue and nation.

This last semester we saw the Lord grow a major desire for evangelism in the hearts of so many of our students, our staff, and not to mention my own. At UB, we had two days every week that were specifically devoted to going out on campus and intentionally seeking opportunities from the Lord to share our faith.

Check out a video Jordan one of our staff put together, as he went out and interviewed students at UB on their thoughts of God. It is a great view into the average conversations we are having with students day to day.

Summer Cru

Summer Cru group at Niagara Falls getting ready to go talk to people about what they think about Jesus and spiritual things.

This summer it felt like we were at one of the two of our boys baseball games. When we weren't at a baseball diamond we were also leading Summer Cru. Basically, through out June and July every wednesday we invite any Cru students that are in Buffalo for the summer for a time to look at the Bible, discuss, and hang out. On any given week we had about 6-20 students. We also did fun activities throughout the summer. We did evangelism training and twice went to Niagara Falls to talk to people about their spiritual beliefs, and of course talked about Jesus. Many of the students mentioned how this was just what they needed to stay connected and grow with God over the summer. I and the students also love meeting and befriending students from other campuses that we don't normally get to know.
