

The Lamb Family

CRU MISSIONARIES AT BUFFALO | May 2016

We are in the last week of the college school year in Buffalo and as we are seeing some things come to an end, there have been lots of new beginnings. We are saying goodbye to seniors that have been leading in our ministry for years. This is bitter sweet for us, but we are so thankful that they will be sent out as lovers of Jesus and leaders for Him in their churches, workplaces, and communities. But with all the goodbyes there seem to be even more new beginnings for next year.

At the University of Buffalo, “Destino” (a ministry reaching Latinos) has launched. A handful of UB Latino students went down to the Spring Break conference in FL with Cru and came back excited reach out to their Latino and Latina friends. They felt like many of their friends would never go to Cru, but would go to something that reflected their culture more. They have been meeting as a small group the last few weeks excited to really let the whole campus know about Destino when school restarts in the fall.

Destino student leaders

At Daemen College, “Athletes in Action” has started. This is a ministry of Cru that specifically looks to reach college athletes. With athletes being so busy with their sport and school they need to meet at a different time and they connect well with other athletes. For the past two months on Sunday nights you will find Daemen college athletes gathering for a bible study in the physical therapy room.

Athlete Community group

The coolest thing is that this has been completely student lead. We have been coaching Katie Mckrell (a sophomore) but she has been completely leading the charge.

Also, at the University of Buffalo “Bridges” (a ministry to reach international students) has begun. Anna, an international student from South Korea has been holding a weekly prayer meeting all semester. When they stepped out in faith and held their first international pot luck they saw over 40 of their international friends come!

International Student Pot Luck

Would you join us in praying for these student leaders that are stepping out in faith to reach all different pockets on the college campus.