Boston Summer Mission

This summer I (Kevin) helped lead 20 college students from all over the country for a two-week summer mission in Boston MA. It was incredible to see how much can happen in two weeks when students are freed from the usual pressures of school and everyday life. During their time there, each day began with a powerful teaching seminar, followed by afternoon outreach. One of our students

Joann wrote this about one of our Gospel conversations. “Kevin, Hailey, and I approached a couple and ended up talking to them for 2 hours. God used all three of us to ask different kinds of questions. We saw that they both had different levels of familiarity with the Bible, and a lot of relational hurt in the form of hypocrisy. As we answered their Qs and explained things from a Biblical standpoint, they said they’d never heard some of what we were saying and that it made sense. By the end they thanked us for talking with them. It was amazing seeing how they went from semi-hostile, to resistant, to open.”

One of the highlights was when 2 of our students had with a conversation with a young man named Kyler. They describe him as being super interested in learning more about God. By the end of their conversation, Kyler ended up giving his life to Jesus. It was great to hear the students’ stories about their text conversations with Kyler days later. He had already begun reading the Bible and was asking some really thoughtful questions. Not that it is about numbers, but it is cool to see what God did, and to think that these numbers represent peoples lives that got to are prayerfully taking one step closer to God. We initiated with 383 people and had 154 Spiritual Conversations, 65 Gospel Conversations, 1 Profession of Faith. God moved powerfully, and there was undeniable growth in our students in just two weeks—not only in knowledge of God but in boldness and confidence in sharing their faith.

Buffalo Summer Cru

We just wrapped up another Summer Cru in Buffalo. Summer is always a smaller group of students, but I really enjoy the new friendships that form between students from different campuses. Plus, summers can be tough on students since they’re not around their usual Christian friends. So, I love that Summer Cru helps keep students strong in their faith.
