

LIFE WITH LINDSEY

Below: teaching my friends from East Asia how to make pizza for the first time! They loved it!

Sometimes reaching nations starts with a little pizza...

Below: Happy, in a discussion group at our weekly pizza night...

Every Thursday night we invite interns to join us for a pizza party at Kevin's apartment (right across the street from the intern housing). From 9pm-12am we make homemade pizza, get to know the interns that come and enjoy a half hour discussion on topics that are relevant to the interns lives. This past week we used a movie clip to talk about love and relationships and ultimately God's love. Each week God surprises us with who shows up! A couple of months ago 4 girls and 1 guy from East Asia showed up and as we got into conversation with them we discovered that at least 3 of them were strong believers! We had yet to meet a strong Christian from East Asia and here were 3! One girl, Happy has a huge heart for God to use her here. I sat in the car with her a few weeks ago as I was about to drop her off telling her how God could use her here in this place and she looked at me with tears in her eyes and said "I want God to use me here, I want people to know God's love because His love has been so amazing to me." Every time we meet with her, she brings someone with her who doesn't know Jesus so that we can go through the gospel with them! Last week I found out that she had helped gather several interns from East Asia to have a Bible Study discovering Jesus in the book of John. One girl, Cherrie from East Asia who doesn't know Jesus told me after a pizza night that Happy had invited her to "I'm so glad Happy is in my life to help me know more about Jesus!" It is so exciting to see God raise up men and women here to have an influence with their co-workers! Pray for Happy as she continues to trust God with her life here, that God would use me and others to continue to help her grow in her faith and know how to invest her life into others. And pray that God would raise up more interns like Happy who are so compelled by God's love! Pray for the community that is forming among those from East Asia that we would begin to see many more trust Christ!

ON A PERSONAL NOTE...

What a whirlwind the past few months have been as Kevin and I have been deep in wedding planning details. It is exciting to see God bringing everything together as we prepare to get married here in Orlando in early May! Less than 3 months away! In the next 2 weeks we'll be beginning our pre-marital counseling. Please continue praying that we would keep our eyes fixed on Jesus and step into what He has for us in this season of marriage preparation!

I'M SO THANKFUL FOR YOUR PRAYERS AND SUPPORT!

Lindsey
