Dear Partner,

By the time I joined Caleb in Ryan's dorm room, he had already introduced the Knowing God Personally booklet in an effort to share the Gospel. Ryan is a freshman from a small Wisconsin town who admitted he had only been to church a few times. Caleb was a student involved in my Bible study for two years, who has since graduated, married, and, along with his wife, decided to intern on our Madison staff team for a year.

Caleb and Ryan moments after Ryan prayed

It was the second week of school and I was scheduled to meet Caleb in this dormitory where he is raising up a Bible study in order help him meet with students who expressed an interest in spiritual matters. Because Caleb had already started talking to Ryan, he texted me the dorm room number so I would find him.

As I entered Ryan's room, I introduced myself, grabbed a seat on the floor, and chimed in the conversation here and there. Ryan is a warm individual, who readily received the message. Even as his roommate entered the room and changed clothes for a career fair, Ryan was glad to continue the conversation, realizing that he hadn't understood the grace of God before. After awhile, Ryan repeated, phrase-by-phrase, the prayer to receive Christ that Caleb read to him from the booklet.

Ryan's hunger to grow has been evident as he and Caleb have met to discuss walking with Jesus. He's also been attending the Bible study Caleb leads in that dorm.

As you can imagine, it is really fun when some of our former students are able to serve with us as interns and part-time staff members.

Our work force in southern Wisconsin is really increased this year as we have five of these graduates serving with us! It's a joy to watch God use them to bear fruit.

Thank you for sharing our joy in this ministry of spiritual reproduction.

Fall Retreats

The weekend before last I was the speaker for the UW-Whitewater fall retreat. I don't get to spend as much time with these students, so it was a great opportunity to get to know and invest in 45 of them.

This weekend is the UW-Madison fall retreat. So far we have 200 people signed up. We've invited Sam Osterloh, our National Director of Ethnic Field Ministries, to speak.

There are so many elements during these packed weekends and we trust God to do amazing things in the lives of our students, as He has in the past.

Please join us in prayer.
