"My Christmas wish was granted," Tyler told me over the phone on Christmas Day. "My brother and two of my friends are coming to IndyCC with me!"

I (Jordan) was elated. Tyler, the freshman student you read about in our October update who came to Christ at our Fall Retreat, has encouraged me in tremendous ways through the way God has been transforming his life. Tyler is hungry to grow in his faith, and he is a natural people gatherer. His younger brother, Shane, and two of his friends who attend the University of Akron, Ryan and Ty, decided to join over 2,000 college students at our winter conference, IndyCC, in Indianapolis.

Tyler had been praying for his friends since he became a Christian. As he spent time with them over the Christmas break, he knew they were searching for something to fill the void in their hearts that only God can satisfy.

"I knew they were looking for God. I could tell through our conversations that they wanted to experience a relationship with Him. They just weren't sure where to start," Tyler said of his friends. Thanks to Tyler's step of faith to invite his friends to join him at IndyCC, there are now two new members of God's family!

On the first night of the conference, Ryan and Ty placed their faith in Jesus after our main speaker, Mike Erre, described how God's promises never fail. Mike explained that God has promised us eternal life in Jesus if we place our faith in him and reassured us that no sins of our past are too big for God to wipe away.

Ryan and Ty soaked up information like sponges. They continued to ask thought-provoking questions in my time with them, and they shared their own hurts and struggles that once kept them from a relationship with Christ.

IndyCC was a powerful week for all of us. Our theme, "God is greater than" reminded us of God's ability to forgive our past, no matter how dark it may be. We were encouraged to pray audacious prayers, asking the Lord to take control of our future and use us in mighty ways.

We were blessed to see God use IndyCC to radically change lives, bring people into a relationship with Christ, and encourage us to believe that God is always greater.

Praising the God who is greater than all things,

Jordan + Niki
