A RESTLESS SPIRIT

I'm ready to go. Overseas. Anywhere. After returning from the STINT briefing in Colorado, I was pumped up to GO to continue sharing about Jesus. Briefing in Colorado trains and equips STINTers to go to their respective countries to teach people how to follow Christ. This year we had roughly 350 STINTers at briefing going to 27 different countries. And this year I was not one of the STINTers. Instead I was on the Leadership/Design Conference Team, a coach for the Tokyo team and prayer coordinator/leader for the conference. I was a sender. And it was incredibly fulfilling.

But when I got home from CO on August 20th, I was hit with the realization that this year I'm not going back to Tokyo. And I'm already so ready to go back. As I walk through the process of re-entry back to the States and life at home, the Holy Spirit's been faithful and kind in convicting me of my restless spirit. First, He's reminded me that He's enough. I don't need to go anywhere when He's right here. I don't need to WORK for Him when He simply desires an intimate relationship with me. Secondly, He's reminding me there's a season for everything. Right now I'm being prepared and trained to go wherever He wants me to go long-term. Thirdly, there's many people right here at home who don't know what it means to have an abundant life with Jesus. And it's already been fun getting to share with Americans who don't know about Him. Language isn't an issue! I'm grateful for these lessons and pray that "the secret of being content" won't be so secret this year.

"This is what the LORD says— your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel: "I am the LORD your God, who teaches you what is best for you, who directs you in the way you should go." Isaiah 48:17
