

Coaches Bible study

Every Wednesday morning the third floor conference room in Hinkle Fieldhouse fills up with Butler University coaches who want to grow spiritually. They are from various sports and backgrounds, but their love for Jesus unites them. This fall semester they are working through a study on “Audience of One: how to worship God through sport.”

Our teammate, Doug Leatherman, leads this group alongside two retired Butler coaches. They have a passion for equipping these coaches in their faith and in turn, make an eternal impact in the lives of student-athletes.

Pray for their times in the Word to be enriching and helpful.

Our annual Fall Getaway is coming up on October 27th! This is an opportunity for busy college athletes to get away from the grind of life to connect with God and fellowship with like-minded believers. We're praying and laboring toward our faith goal of 100 students from Indiana schools to be present. Our guest speaker, Kyle Riley, is bringing the message from John 15 about abiding in Christ. Our students are so busy that many times they don't hear or sense the Lord's leading in their lives. We hope they will get a taste of abundant life with God and be refreshed in their faith.

Large groups

We host large group gatherings every first week of the month. Since our students meet in weekly small groups, our goal is to gather and “show” them the AIA movement on their campus. We also want to create a space where student-athletes who aren't yet Christians can explore what it means to follow Jesus. Matt spoke at all four large groups this month on the topic “How to glorify God through sport” and next month's topic is “How to build God's kingdom through sport.” Please pray for growing numbers at large groups as we seek to encourage believers and proclaim the gospel to non-believers in a compelling and winsome way.
