

Can you believe that one year ago I was going on my first date with Jenny, who would become my WIFE?! Yeah, it's crazy when you think about it. God's purposes and timing sometimes make me just laugh and surrender any sense of my ability to make things happen. This is definitely one of those situations.

In just one week I'll be flying to Chicago for our wedding on July 12th, which will happen in Wheaton (suburbs of Chicago). It will be my last plane flight of this year-long, distance-dating adventure. When Jenny and I first began dating, her living in Indianapolis and me in central California, we knew it was not going to be easy. We agreed it was an investment in our relationship to see each other once a month. I can honestly say I don't know how it happened, but it did. There were a few five-week stretches in there, but overall God was gracious to us. There were many Skype dates concluded with a wish of being able to say goodnight in person.

Our plan after the wedding and honeymoon (which is happening in Oregon) is to road trip in my car from San Luis Obispo, CA all the way to Indianapolis, IN - four long days of driving! You can pray for safety with that long journey. In early August we get settled into our place, and then start campus ministry again August 20th. Please pray for wisdom and energy in all the life details, moving, cleaning, and overall transition of merging two adult lives. I so appreciate and cherish your prayers and concern for my personal life!
