Sending students for a lifetime

The academic school year is a natural cycle. August brings new potential and excitement. As Fall marches forward and gives way to Winter, we feel the seasons, or cycles, in our life and ministry. November is an interesting month. Students are slammed with studying and just holding on for Thanksgiving break. But many students are also beginning to think about their summer. It's a natural time to begin recruiting for our spring break and summer mission opportunities. Pray that God would lead many to "Go" with us!

But that's not the only way we seek to "Send" students. We seek to "Build" and equip our students so that when they graduate, they're ready for a lifetime of serving the Lord. Wherever they go, whatever career they pursue, whatever life throws their way, they're always looking for ways to serve others and share the good news of Jesus.

One practical way we send students is have graduating seniors share at the end of the semester how they've grown spiritually, and what they're trusting the Lord for moving forward. Below are a few snippets of what some of our seniors said to encourage the group. Pray with us that Eric and Hannah would keep trusting the Lord for a lifetime.

"My path through Butler has been unexpected, but I've learned in the process the best thing I can do is simply trust the Lord." - Hannah Hartzell, Cross Country & Track

"God has taught me to build my identity in Christ, and the AIA community has been integral in helping me do that." - Eric Leonard, Soccer

Reaching coaches and administration

As we think about reaching an entire athletic department, we can't overlook the importance of coaches, administration, and support staff. And what better way to serve them than a free lunch? We hosted an appreciation lunch for the entire Butler athletic department, and 35 people showed up!

We were able to connect with new coaches and have a few spiritual conversations. We also host a weekly Bible study for coaches and admin. Pray that God's Word would go forth in all areas of the department!
